Black Leaders Oppose Biden Abortion Push on Low-Income Blacks

CURE hosts press conference July 11th to push back against efforts for national abortion law

Washington, D.C. - The Center for Urban Renewal and Education (CURE), a policy and research center dedicated to fighting poverty and seeking solutions for black families to grow and their communities to flourish, will host a press conference on Monday, July 11 at 10:00 a.m. EST with black pro-life experts and advocates to push back against the attempts by Congress and the Biden Administration to pass national legislation allowing abortion up until the moment of birth.

We are driven by truth. While we are driven to protect the sanctity of life, the Left is driven to destroy it. The U.S. House of Representatives has already passed the “Women’s Health Protection Act,” an effort to allow abortion nationally for any reason up until the moment of birth and force taxpayers to pay for it. Discussions now progress in the Senate, where even elimination of the filibuster is being considered in an effort to push the abortion agenda into law. These extreme proposals by the Left must be countered in the ongoing and necessary fight to protect and preserve life.

“Why President Biden is on one hand trying to keep blacks voting for democrats in a pivotal election year, while on the other hand is pushing his party to keep aborting poor blacks, is very telling that he cares nothing about the prodigy of African Americans, as he has made clear throughout his political history,” said Star Parker, Founder and President of CURE.

CURE is a policy and research center dedicated to fighting poverty and restoring dignity through messages of faith, freedom and personal responsibility. CURE seeks free-market solutions to provide education, employment, healthcare and the opportunity for black families to grow and their communities to flourish.
